Abstract
The Qur'an and Arabic language are inseparable from one another. Learning the Qur'an also means learning Arabic, and vice versa. This study aims to describe the contribution of memorizing the Qur'an carried out by students at Baeturrahman Tahfizh House to the mastery of Arabic vocabulary. This research uses qualitative research methods. The data collection technique used observation, interview and documentation techniques. The results of this study indicate that the contribution of memorizing the Qur'an owned by underage students of the Baeturrahman Tahfizh House to the mastery of Arabic vocabulary has only been achieved in the aspect of mastery of pronunciation, while in the aspects of meaning, istiqaq, and usage, they have not been able to master it because of their limited ability conditions.

Keywords: contribution, memorizing the Qur'an, arabic vocabulary

Introduction
The Qur'an is very closely related to Arabic because the language of the Qur'an itself is conveyed in Arabic. To read the Al-Qur'an and understand it, you need Arabic language skills. Therefore, in memorizing the Qur'an, a person has essentially mastered Arabic in its... pronunciation. Someone who memorizes the Al-Qur'an and studies its meaning and content will certainly make it easier for him to study Arabic widely. By knowing Arabic, people who memorize the Al-Qur'an will find it easy to understand every meaning in the Al-Qur'an. Likewise, vice versa, people who memorize the Al-Qur'an and understand its meaning will essentially make it easier for them to learn Arabic.

The essence of Arabic emerged and developed under the auspices of the Qur'an. The specialty that Arabic has from other languages in the world because it is the language of the Qur'an, hadith, and other classical books. Arabic is the language of the Qur'an clearly without the slightest doubt. Therefore, we can conclude that learning Arabic is to know and understand the Qur'an. Thus, learning Arabic is part of studying religion, which is an obligation for every Muslim. Because it is impossible to understand the Qur'an correctly apart from learning Arabic.

The Qur'an comes when the Arabic language is at the peak of its maturity and glory. The arrival of this holy book also coincided with the arrival of Islam and signaled the end of the jahiliyah period. At that time, the Arabs were famous for their language skills through poetry presented through competitions from various groups of Arab society. The use of Arabic became a form of their fanaticism, although each community group had its own distinctive dialect, but Arabic tended to be dominated by the Quraysh dialect which became a unified language between groups of Arab society.

In Arabic language learning, it essentially requires students to master Arabic vocabulary with a lot. Learning vocabulary is the initial stage in teaching Arabic to students, because vocabulary is one of the language elements that must be mastered by students before mastering language skills. In the stages of learning Arabic, learning vocabulary is the first step that must and must be learned. Ignorance of vocabulary will affect the lack of a good understanding of Arabic.

Learning Arabic essentially requires students to master a lot of Arabic vocabulary. Learning vocabulary is the initial stage in teaching Arabic to students because vocabulary is one of the language elements that students must master before mastering language skills.\(^7\)

Vocabulary is also the basis for all language competencies other than grammatical. A word is a unit of language that has meaning and is an element that forms a sentence or expression that is the basis for communication, both orally and in writing. Someone who tries to understand a text or word needs vocabulary knowledge. Although the meaning of a word is interpreted according to its context, the knowledge of the basic meaning of the vocabulary must be known first.\(^8\)

Language is a means of communication, and vocabulary is the most important thing in communication. Without understanding and mastering the vocabulary of a language, one cannot possibly communicate well. Mastering the vocabulary of a language is a basic thing in foreign languages including Arabic. Mastering does not only mean being able to pronounce Arabic letters well, or just knowing the meaning, or knowing the isytiqa’q, but mastering vocabulary means being able to use the vocabulary by its good and correct use. Thus, the measure of a person can be said to master Arabic vocabulary, if he masters four aspects, namely mastering the pronunciation of the letters, their meaning, isytiqa’q, and the use of the vocabulary.\(^9\)

The Qur’an and the Arabic language are inseparable from each other. The language of the Qur’an conveyed in Arabic is an absolute thing that cannot be changed and is bound to each other. People who can read and memorize the Qur’an have essentially mastered the Arabic language, but their mastery is only focused on the Arabic language written in the Qur’an alone. However, it does not guarantee that those who can read and memorize the Qur’an can also master Arabic in the specific case of mastering its vocabulary well. Therefore, it is necessary to know and analyze further how the conditions of the memorizers of the Qur’an, especially for minors who do not understand Arabic complexly their mastery of Arabic vocabulary.

There are several urgencies of the Arabic language for memorizing the Qur'an, including: First, it helps in memorizing the Qur'an. Second, it helps the memorizer in knowing and understanding the meaning of the Qur'anic verses. Third, making memorizers not get lost in reading the Qur'an.10

Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman is one of the Islamic educational institutions that located in Karawang, West Java and focuses on memorizing the Qur'an. However, there is other Islamic learning such as the study of the classic book which discusses the science of fiqh, morals, tawhid, hadith, and Arabic. The majority of students Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman are elementary school students. It is interesting to further examine the objectives of Arabic language learning applied by Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman to underage Al-Qur'an memorization students who are not yet able to capture in depth the complexity of the Arabic language.

From some of the previous studies mentioned above, there are similarities and differences with this research. The similarity is in correlation studies related to Arabic language learning. The difference lies in the focus of research studies, there is research language learning achievement. This study focuses on describing the contribution of memorizing the Qur'an owned by the Tahfizh Al-Quran House assistant to Arabic vocabulary skills. Therefore, this study aims to explain the contribution of memorizing the Qur'an to the students' Arabic vocabulary skills.

Method

This research uses a qualitative approach with a descriptive type of research where researchers try to describe the contribution of memorizing the Qur’an to the students in mastering Arabic vocabulary.

Identify Subsections

Participants are students who memorize the Qur’an at the Baeturrahman Tahfizh House who are still minors or are still educated in elementary school. The method of data collection is carried out by direct observation and interviews with students to find out the process of mastering the vocabulary they master through memorizing the Qur’an. And in knowing the contribution of memorizing the Qur’an to the mastery of Arabic vocabulary, researchers tested the mastery of Arabic vocabulary which includes mastery of pronunciation, meaning, isytiqaq, and usage to a total of 10 students by testing one by one with the same vocabulary where the vocabulary is obtained from the verse they have memorized.

Participant (Subject) Characteristics

The participants of this research are the students of Al-Qur’an memorization of Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman, Karawang who are still minors or who are studying elementary school. The researcher selected 10 students to take the Arabic vocabulary mastery test from their Al-Qur’an memorization.

Research Design

This research in collecting data uses observation, interview, documentation, and testing methods. Researchers made direct observations of the activities and conditions of the students in memorizing the Qur’an and their ability to master Arabic vocabulary. The researcher also tested the ability of Arabic vocabulary directly from the memorization of the Qur’an that the students have. The analysis of this research uses descriptive analysis techniques, with the stages of researchers describing the data obtained from observations, interviews, documentation, and testing. Then the researcher reduces the data that has been collected and focuses on the problem study. And finally, researchers explain in detail and depth the focus of research by the theory.

Result and Discussion

Qur’anic memorization in improving Arabic vocabulary knowledge
As we know the existence of the Qur'an is closely related to the Arabic language. In studying the Qur'an, one needs prior knowledge of the Arabic language. Likewise, with memorizing the Qur'an, someone who memorizes the Qur'an, in essence, has learned the vocabulary contained in each verse of the Qur'an. People who know the meaning of the verses of the Qur'an, will make it easier to memorize them. Vice versa, the person who memorizes the Qur'an will make it easier for him to know the vocabulary contained in it. The memorizers of the Qur'an, indirectly also memorize how to properly arrange the Arabic sentences written in each verse of the Qur'an. Therefore, it becomes very important to enhance the knowledge of Qur'anic memorizers regarding Arabic vocabulary in addition to their memorization of the Qur'an.

Based on statements by several students who memorize the Qur'an at Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman, they revealed that the amount of memorized Al-Qur'an they have indirectly enriched the Arabic vocabulary they recite from the memorized Al-Qur'an verses. However, they said that their memorization of Arabic vocabulary contained in the Qur'an was only limited to memorization. Given their underage condition, they are not yet able to absorb knowledge perfectly related to Arabic vocabulary. It is known that the Arabic vocabulary written in the Qur'an, no longer contains vocabulary about daily activities or others, which can be easily memorized and practiced in daily activities, but these vocabularies are considered vocabulary that has a high level of meaning. So with the condition of the underage students, they are not fully able to understand the meaning of the vocabulary contained in the Qur'an.

Looking at the data shows that the essence of memorizing the Qur'an owned by the students can increase their knowledge of Arabic vocabulary, but it is only limited to memorization, without knowing and understanding the meaning of the vocabulary. This is due to the condition of the students who are still underage and the vocabulary contained in the Qur'an includes high vocabulary so it is difficult for them to understand its meaning.

The contribution of Qur'anic memorization on aspects of mastering Arabic vocabulary

In this study, the data in the discussion were obtained from the results of data collection using the interview method with the students of the Qur'anic memorization at Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman, a total of 10 students who were underage or were studying elementary school related to the contribution of memorizing the Qur’an they had to their Arabic vocabulary skills. From the observation and interview process, the results of observations and interviews were obtained which can illustrate the results of the contribution of memorizing the Qur’an to Arabic vocabulary skills.

The ten students who memorized the Qur’an were observed, interviewed, and tested on their mastery of Arabic vocabulary. They were gathered in one room to be tested on their Al-Qur’an memorization ability and their mastery of Arabic vocabulary. The researcher conducted an Al-Qur’an memorization test on Surah Al-Baqarah verses 1-5. After the memorization test, they were able to recite their memorization fluently well, and correctly, but when questioned regarding aspects of vocabulary mastery which included the meaning of vocabulary, Ḥiytiqaq, and its use, there were differences in some students. Precisely on the word “bi al-ghaib”, in terms of pronunciation of the word, they have no difficulty in pronouncing it. However, when asked about the meaning of the word, there were differences between them, namely a total of eight students could not answer or did not know the meaning of the vocabulary, and there were only two students who knew the meaning of the vocabulary. Then in the next aspect question, namely the Ḥiytiqaq of the vocabulary “bi al-ghaib”, nine students do not know it, and only one student who knows it. And in the last aspect question, namely the use of the vocabulary “bi al-ghaib”, all students could not answer or did not know it.

This first mastery test shows the contribution of memorizing the Qur’an owned by underage students of Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman to the mastery of Arabic vocabulary, namely, they mastered the aspects of pronunciation well, but there were only two students who mastered the aspects of pronunciation and meaning, and there was only one student who mastered three aspects of pronunciation, meaning, and Ḥiytiqaq, and none of them mastered all aspects of mastering Arabic vocabulary. In this case, it shows that they have not fully mastered the Arabic vocabulary from memorizing the Qur’an that they have.
In testing the vocabulary of “al-kitaab”, in terms of mastery of pronunciation, all students can fulfill this aspect well. In terms of mastery of the meaning, eight students know the meaning of the vocabulary. In the aspect of mastery of isytiqaq, there are only four students who know the isytiqaq of the vocabulary. And in the aspect of its use, there is only one student who knows the use of the vocabulary. Thus, from the four aspects of mastery of “al-kitaab” vocabulary, all students can master the pronunciation aspect, seven students master two aspects, namely from the pronunciation and meaning, three students master three aspects, namely from the pronunciation, meaning, and isytiqaq, and there is only one student who masters all aspects of mastery of the vocabulary which includes pronunciation, meaning, isytiqaq, and usage.

In this case, the contribution of memorizing the Qur’an that they have to the mastery of the vocabulary “al-kitaab” can be said to have not been mastered perfectly and only one student can master all four aspects of the mastery of Arabic vocabulary.

Then on the next vocabulary test, the word “ash-shalaata”. In the aspect of vocabulary mastery in the pronunciation of the vocabulary, all students can pronounce the vocabulary well and correctly. Furthermore, in testing the meaning aspect, seven students were able to answer and know the meaning of the vocabulary. In testing the isytiqaq aspect, there were only three students who knew the root word of the vocabulary. And in the last aspect, namely the use of the vocabulary "ash-shalaata", none of the students could apply or answer the use of the vocabulary.

Thus, based on these data, it shows that students' mastery of Arabic vocabulary of the vocabulary "ash-shalaata", namely all students can master the pronunciation aspect, seven students master two aspects, namely in the aspects of mastery of pronunciation and meaning, three students master three aspects of mastery, namely aspects of pronunciation, meaning, and isytiqaq, and no students master all aspects of mastery of these vocabulary. In this case, the contribution of memorizing the Qur'an to students' vocabulary mastery is not perfect.

The next Arabic vocabulary mastery test is on the word "yu'minuuna". In the aspect of mastery of pronunciation, all students can pronounce the vocabulary well and correctly. In the aspect of mastery of vocabulary meaning, four students know the aspect of mastery of meaning. In the aspect of mastery of isytiqaq, four students mastered the isytiqaq of the vocabulary. Finally, in the aspect of mastering the use of vocabulary, none of the students were able to master the use of vocabulary. Based on the data obtained from the results of the "yu'minuuna" vocabulary test, it shows that there are ten or all students who took the test who were able to master the pronunciation aspect of the vocabulary, there were four students who were able to master two aspects of mastery, namely the aspects of pronunciation and meaning, there were four students who mastered three aspects of vocabulary mastery, namely in the aspects of pronunciation, meaning, and isytiqaq, while in the last aspect, namely the aspect of vocabulary use, none of the students were able to master this aspect.

By looking at this data, the contribution of memorizing the Qur'an owned by students to the mastery of the vocabulary "yu'minuuna" is only limited to the achievement of three mastery only, namely in the aspects of pronunciation, meaning, and isytiqaq. So it can be said that students' mastery of Arabic vocabulary has not met the standards of full mastery of vocabulary.
In the next test of mastery of Arabic vocabulary, namely on the word “al-muflihuuna”. From the data obtained by the researchers, it results in the mastery aspect of pronunciation, a total of ten or all students can master the pronunciation aspect of the vocabulary. Then in the aspect of mastery of meaning, there are only two students who can master or know the meaning of the vocabulary. And in the aspect of mastery of isytiqaq and the use of the vocabulary, there was not one student who mastered both aspects of the mastery of the vocabulary “al-muflihuuna”. Based on the data, it shows that the mastery of the vocabulary “al-muflihuuna” explains that all students can master the pronunciation aspect of the vocabulary, two students master two aspects of mastery, namely in the aspects of pronunciation and meaning, and there are no students who can master the isytiqaq and usage aspects of the vocabulary.

Therefore, based on the explanation above, the contribution of Qur'anic memorization owned by students to the mastery of “al-muflihuuna” vocabulary refers to both aspects of vocabulary mastery, namely aspects of pronunciation and meaning. While all students do not master the aspects of isytiqaq and the use of the vocabulary. So it can be said that the students' mastery of the vocabulary has not met the standards of mastery of Arabic vocabulary.

The results of the students test related to the mastery of Arabic vocabulary from memorizing the Qur'an in verses 1-5 of Surah Al-Baqarah, shows that the contribution of memorization they have is only on average able to master some aspects of mastery of Arabic vocabulary, such as mastery of vocabulary pronunciation, vocabulary meaning, and vocabulary isytiqaq. Whereas in the aspect of vocabulary usage, there is only one student who mastered the vocabulary of the word “al-kitaaibu”, the rest none of the students mastered this aspect. In this case, the mastery of Arabic vocabulary from memorizing the Qur'an that they have has not fully met the standards of mastery of Arabic vocabulary which includes all four aspects. The aspect of mastery of pronunciation is the most mastered aspect of the students, followed by the meaning aspect which ranks second among the aspects that many students... master, and ends with the aspect of isyitiqaq which is the least mastered aspect by the students. And in the aspect of use, it is an aspect that is not mastered by students, in this case, students are considered to still find it difficult to master the aspects of using Arabic vocabulary from memorizing the Al-Qur’an they have. Therefore, it is important to emphasize the students of Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman to study in more depth all aspects of mastery of Arabic vocabulary, especially in the aspect of its use.

From the results of research showing that there is a contribution of memorizing the Qur’an to aspects of mastery of Arabic vocabulary, this is in line with some previous research that has been mentioned, such as research that mentions the close relationship and influence of memorizing the Qur’an on Arabic language both in learning and student learning achievement as in research by Erlina, Aryati, and Ondeng. Likewise, on the contrary, there is a contribution and influence from Arabic language on memorizing the Qur’an as in research by Rangkuti, Nidia, and Basiran. As for some other previous studies, they show the influence of Arabic on religious studies, the role of mahfuzat books on Arabic vocabulary, and the role of tutoring in learning Arabic and memorizing the Qur’an.

Conclusion

From the explanation above, it can be concluded that the memorization of the Qur’an owned by the students of the Rumah Tahfizh Baeturrahman who are underage or are carrying out basic education, cannot affect all aspects of mastery of Arabic vocabulary which includes mastering aspects of pronunciation, meaning, isyitiqaq, and its use. As shown in the research results, their level of mastery of Arabic vocabulary on average only reaches the level of mastery in one aspect, namely pronunciation. As for the other three aspects, namely the aspects of meaning, isyitiqaq, and usage, they have not mastered them because of their limited abilities at this age. Of course, in this study, the researcher has limitations in the research, which is related to accurate measurement in measuring well the contribution of memorizing the Qur'an to the mastery of Arabic vocabulary. Therefore, the researcher recommends further research to conduct in-depth and more extensive exploration related to the contribution of memorizing the Qur'an to the mastery of Arabic vocabulary, so that good and accurate research results can be obtained.
